

Prof[.] E. D. Bassett regarded it as a hopeful omen, that, for the first time in the history of this country, the Chief Magistrate has conceded, in a public way, that the negro is really capable of forming, and is entitled to have, an opinion. He saw no force in the plea that the colonization measure of President Lincoln is to further the interest of the slave, by providing a refuge for the freedman, beyond the grasp of slaveholding tyrants. For, the Danish Government kindly offered, but was not granted permission, to take all the "contrabands" under its protecting wing, and rank them as men.

Our only safety is in presenting a firm, bold front against all schemes of colonization. By whatsoever name called, they are the same old lupus in pelle ovis, and in effect, force for our expatriation; having for their base the monstrous idea that the black and the white races cannot dwell together in harmony.—Anglo-African.

Prof E. D. Bassett regarded it as a hopeful omen, that, for the first time in the history of this country, the Chief Magistrate has conceded, in a public way, that the negro is really capable of forming, and is entitled to have, an opinion. He saw no force in the plea that the colonization measure of President Lincoln is to further the interest of the slave, by providing a refuge for the freedman, beyond the grasp of slaveholding tyrants. For, the Danish Government kindly offered, but was not granted permission, to take all the "contrabands" under its protecting wing, and rank them as men.

Our only safety is in presenting a firm, bold front against all schemes of colonization. By whatsoever name called, they are the same old lupus in pelle ovis, and in effect, force for our expatriation; having for their base the monstrous idea that the black and the white races cannot dwell together in harmony.—Anglo-African.