

Mr. BRADLEY, a young coloured man, of Boston, rose to speak against the project of Mr. Foster for a new political party. He had long been a political man, and he claimed the honour of originating the Liberty party! He gave quite a complacent account of his early labours in the cause, and his influence over some of the anti-slavery political leaders of New York. He also alluded to Frederick Douglass, and spoke of him as a prodigal son, who had turned away from his first love, and from the friends that made him all that he is.
